ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORTS

HICKORY, N. C.
THURSDAY EVENING.
October 21, 1915.

MERCHANT MARINE NEEDED.

Secretary Daniels in a speech at Raleigh yesterday spoke of the importance of curtailing the cotton crop, the planting of many additional acres of food crops, and the necessity for a merchant marine. Naturally the secretary of the navy favors a government-owned merchant fleet, but there is little prospect of our getting it for many years. Neither is there much possibility of a merchant marine through ship subsidy. Between the two the Record is able to see little difference to the taxpayer, but there is a wide difference from a political standpoint. What the Record wants to see is a merchant marine, regardless of whether it is secured by a subsidy or by government ownership.

Last year southern farmers lost millions of dollars because the politicians in the country had squabbled for years over the question of ships. Farmers and manufacturers will continue to be denied markets, Americans will continue to be restricted in employment and the whole country will continue to lose unless our leaders get away from their narrow policy. Of course we are not charging the Democratic administration with this condition, because it obtained long before Mr. Wilson was elected president. But Democrats and Republicans are jointly responsible.

The other day we read that the Japanese government, which controls through a subsidy the steamers that ply between the United States and the east, had raised the rates on products from the United States to the east and had lowered the rate from the east to the United States. We don't blame Japan. If the United States will permit the great bulk of its commerce to be carried in foreign bottoms, it ought to get stung.

THE SERBIAN CAMPAIGN.

It begins to look as if the allies were too late in dispatching troops to the aid of Serbia. With the Germans and Austrians slowly pressing the Serbs back and the Bulgarians marching on them in force from the east, there is little hope in London, it appears, that the Serbs will escape to the mountains. If they are not captured or annihilated, they will be lucky.

Although the Bulgarians are reported to have cut the Nish-saloniki railroad at Vranja, thereby lessening the possibility of aid from the Anglo-French forces by that route, if the Serbian government is transferred from Nish to Mitrovitz, help may still reach the new capital, for a branch railroad line connects that city with Uskub, near the Greek border. The British and French doubtless will make vigorous efforts to succor their allies, but from this distance it appears that the Austro-German forces are about to effect their most telling blow of the war.

If the Teutonic armies force their way through Serbia to Constantinople promptly, they will be able to supply the Turks with ammunition, renew their courage, and gain a moral victory in the Balkans that will keep Greece and Roumania neutral until the end. For the allies the Balkan campaign of the central powers and Bulgaria is fraught with grave import more than any of the campaigns since the first German march on Paris. But there is a bare possibility that the net in which the Serbians are being forced will not be strong enough to hold them, and that it will prove similar to those great sweeps of Mackensen and von Hindenburg in Russia.

READY TO HELP.

The Record appreciates the following letter from Mr. J. H. Beall, president of the Caldwell Fair:

We have noticed the liberal space you have given our county fair, just closed, and your very favorable comment. We thank you for this, and especially do we appreciate the broad spirit of neighborliness that reaches across imaginary lines to extend the friendly hand. We are glad to believe that we of both sides of the Catawba are equally interested in the upbuilding of our whole section, forgetting the narrower boundary lines.

Mr. Beall is correct in believing "that we of both sides of the Catawba are equally interested in the upbuilding of our whole section, forgetting the narrower boundary lines." The Record always expects to do all it can in the development of this section, and we knew that one of the best ways to help was to assist its neighboring county, if it could, in making its first fair a success. And we are glad to learn that Catawba's first fair was a success in every way. If this paper can serve this section and state in any way, all we ask is that our friends tell us how.

"We should lend to all," remarks the High Point Enterprise in discussing the flotation of the recent Anglo-French loan, the probabilities that another loan will be floated in this country by those governments and the discussion of a German loan in the United States. If American bankers can be satisfied that Germany and Austria will be able to pay up, there will be no trouble about borrowing the money.

Mr. Homer H. B. Mask, county agent, and County Superintendent Long were in the city yesterday afternoon interesting Hickory men in the Startown school, which is preparing to do things on a larger scale than ever before. Catawba county will have a miniature A. and M. at Startown, Mr. Mask said, and other communities in the county can follow suit just as soon as they show the push.

One of those Fort Smith "moonshiners" we knew on the baseball field, another in the Sunday school and still another in the mercantile business. Brother Casper had pointed out the way for them to make tons of money, and they must have been making it too, according to the Associated Press story in yesterday's Record.

For a young man not yet 38 years old Edward Kidder Graham has enough honorary degrees to decorate the emperor of Germany or Earl Kitchener—and he has won them in a good cause.

If the president's declaration in favor of women suffrage was worth 50,000 votes to the cause, we shudder to think of the vote the women would have got had Mr. Wilson been again it.

Some of the "birds" on hats sold by Hickory milliners are natural enough to fool T. Gilbert Pearson.

MEDICAL INSPECTION IN ALAMANCE SCHOOLS

Raleigh, Oct. 21.—Medical school inspection work begins in Alamance and Northampton counties November 1. Dr. T. M. Jordan of Raleigh who is now taking training in this line of work in Philadelphia under Doctor Charles Cornell who is at the head of school inspection work in Philadelphia will be in charge of this combined school work in Alamance.

A health catechism for use in the schools of these two counties has been prepared by the state board of health and is now being issued to all the teachers of these counties. This catechism is to be used by the children as an aid to their study of hygiene and physiology and in preparing a health day program for the school and community. It deals with the subjects of sanitation and hygiene and the causes and prevention of the most common preventable diseases.

The full itinerary of the school inspector for Alamance county has been completed and is also being sent to the teachers of that county. He will visit about 55 schools and carry out the program previously arranged.

PRIZE FOR GUARDSMEN

Raleigh, Oct. 21.—In the military features of the State Fair here the first prize for best appearance in the parade was awarded to the Durham company and the second prize to Goldsboro. The first prize in the competitive drill went to the High Point company and the second prize to the coast artillery company of Greensboro, and third prize to Company D, Goldsboro.

First coast artillery, Raleigh, won the prize for best showing in inspection. The bugler's prize went to Paul Giggis of Asheville. The $100 prize for the company traveling most miles in multiplying men and distance traveled went to Asheville.

SEARCHING FOR NEGRO

Rocky Mount, Oct. 21.—Posses are scouring the woods and the search continues for Alonzo Savage, the young negro who Monday afternoon fired upon Constable R. R. Langley of the Pinetops section of Edgecombe county, inflicting serious injury that was at first thought would cost his life. Later reports from the wounded officer indicate that the wounds are not so serious as was at first feared and it is generally believed that he will recover.

PUBLICITY BUREAU IS TO BE INCORPORATED

Raleigh, Oct. 21.—The North Carolina State Publicity Bureau of Development of Agriculture and Industry, in the annual session was night, determined to incorporate the bureau at once and designated the following officers with which the incorporation shall be perfected: President, H. A. Page, Aberdeen; vice presidents, Clarence Poe, Raleigh; A. W. McLean, Lumberton; Hugh McRae, Wilmington; Leonard Tufts, Pinchurst; R. C. Hood, Greensboro; C. O. Kuester, Charlotte; secretary, J. C. Forester, Greensboro; treasurer, A. A. Thompson, Raleigh.

Mr. Page was kept home by sickness and A. W. McLean presided. There were 50-odd business men prominent in different sections of the state present and taking a lively interest in the work of perfecting the organization and getting down to effective work.

Field Secretary Bion H. Butler reported upwards of $2,500 raised in the canvass. There was discussion of the advisability of changing the present name to a shorter one and a wide difference of opinion expressed. Bion Butler told the meeting that he had dragged the present name over the heads of many others and that he and many others had come to like the present name very much. He opposed any change and the members so voted.

The vice presidency has been a joke in view of the public for a great many years. But Thomas Riley Marshall is the only vice president who seems to have realized it.—Rochester Herald.

FUNERAL OF MR. HOPKINS

Father of Mrs. Geo. C. Yoder of Hickory Buried in Wilmington

The Wilmington Dispatch Monday contained the following account of the death and funeral of Mr. J. J. Hopkins, father of Mrs. Geo. C. Yoder of Hickory:

The funeral of Mr. J. J. Hopkins one of Wilmington's most prominent citizens and leading business men, who died suddenly early yesterday morning, was held at 4 o'clock this afternoon at the late residence, No. 119 Church street. Thence the cortege wended its way to Oakdale cemetery, where the remains were laid tenderly to rest, and the new made mound covered with a profusion of flowers, attesting the loving, though sad remembrance of many friends.

The services were conducted by Rev. J. M. Wells, D. D., pastor of the First Presbyterian church, of which the deceased was a member, assisted by Rev. W. E. Cox, rector of St. John's Episcopal church. The pallbearers were State Senator W. B. Cooper, ex-Mayor William E. Springer, ex-Mayor Joseph D. Smith, Captain Thomas D. Meares and Messrs. William E. Worth, W. E. Perdue, and W. M. Manning, honorary; Col. Walker Taylor and Messrs. L. W. Davis, C. C. Chabourn, Robert H. Northrop, C. W. Polvogt and L. H. Skinner.

The passing of Mr. Hopkins again exemplifies that "in the midst of life we are in death." Saturday he was apparently in the best of health. He attended, with his accustomed energy, to his business affairs and was his usual jovial life, sunshine being a big part of his nature. But after retiring Saturday evening he suffered an attack of the heart. Medical aid was quickly summoned and Drs. C. P. Bolles and John C. Wessell responded and did all in human power to keep the spark of life aglow, but the patient lapsed into unconsciousness and soon afterwards passed quietly out of life.

The announcement of the passing of Mr. Hopkins came with a distinct shock to the entire community and carried sadness to many hearts, the deceased being favored with large circle of friends, as his affability attracted scores to him. Possessed of a most lovable disposition and a cheery manner he had cast sunshine into the hearts of many. Old and young in all walks of life, had a word of praise for him, and so the passing of such a citizen is peculiarly sad. As a business man he had been successful and had been identified with numerous enterprises in Wilmington. For many years he conducted a large meat business in Fayetteville market, while being connected with other projects making for the advancement of the city. He was also a great worker in fraternal orders and was ardent in the cause of helping his fellowman. He was a member of the Royal Arcanum, the Junior Order of United American Mechanics, Knights of Pythias and the Woodmen of the World.

As a Pythian Mr. Hopkins was especially ardent. He had been a member of the order for many years and was one of the charter members of the old uniform rank that held forth in this city for several years. He had aided in the institution of lodges in a number of places and when the Supreme Lodge met in Boston some years ago was one of the most enthusiastic attendees.

The deceased became a resident of Wilmington during his younger days, moving to this city from Fayetteville. He engaged in the meat business here and made a big success of it. His commercial work did not stop there, because he was successfully associated with other enterprises, and at the time of his death he was a member of the directorates of the American National Bank, the Independent Ice Company and the Fidelity Trust & Development Co.

Besides his devoted wife he is survived by six children, these being Mrs. D. N. Chadwick, Misses Marie V. and Aliene Hopkins and Mr. Cliff S. Hopkins, of Wilmington; Mrs. Geo. C. Yoder of Hickory, and Mrs. C. A. Paris of Norfolk, Va. Mr. Hopkins was 56 years of age.

ANOTHER TRAGEDY TO THIS SOMBRE RECORD.

(By the Associated Press)

London, Oct. 21.—The death of the sixteenth Lord Petre at the age of 24 as the result of wounds received in France adds another tragedy to the sombre record of this noble house. There have been seven Lord Petres in 31 years. Thorndon Hall, the seat of the family, was burned down 40 years ago, destroying the family relics. It was the romantic traditions of this house that inspired Miss Braddon to write "Lady Audley's Secret."

One of Lord Petre's ancestors was tutor to Anne Boleyn. Another died in the tower at the instigation of Titus Oates. A member of the family stole a lock of hair from Arabella Fermor, a frolic that led to a feud and to Pope's mockery of the affair in "The Rape of the Lock."

Not So Easy.

A Scottish prison chaplain, recently appointed, entered one of the cells on his first round of inspection and thus addressed the prisoner who occupied it:

"Well, my man, do you know who I am?"

"No nor I dinna care!" was the nonchalant reply.

"Well, I am your new chaplain."

"Oh, ye are? Then I have heard o' ye before."

"And what did you hear?" returned the chaplain, his curiosity getting the better of his dignity.

"Well, I heard that the last two kirkis ye were in ye reached them bath empty; but I can say ye willna find it quite so easy to do the same wi' this."—Tit-Bits.

A movement is on foot in New York to make the laws intelligible to men without legal training, but it might help some if they were made intelligible enough to men with legal training to enable two lawyers to agree as to what they mean.—Florida Times-Union.

There are some advantages, too, in not being president of the United States. How'd you like for instance, to do your courting with a troupe of newspaper reporters and photographers forever at your heels?—Manchester Union.

With an expenditure of $430,000,000 a year for the army and navy, the United States as a peaceable nation will be paying a fair rate of insurance against war and devastation on its wealth of $150,000,000,000 or thereabouts.—New York World.
